

Young Workers Committee's Report

Gratitude again goes out to the PSAC NCR Regional Office and all our regional committees who continue to support the efforts of the Young Workers of the National Capital Region. We have completed another successful quarter which is thanks in great part to the backing of our brothers and sisters. We have managed to expand our network and are ever-striving to reach out to more young workers. It is crucial for the Union movement that we continue to engage youth and start the dialogue now to ensure we are ready for the challenges we are about to face.

The year 2015 started out with a bang! For the first time ever, 7 regional young worker representatives came together over a weekend to discuss their challenges, successes, and to coordinate efforts on a national scale. The first 2 day meeting of the Young Workers Working Group (YWWG) was followed by a presentation to the AEC which was well received and led to a further presentation to the NBOD in March. The YWWG's Young Workers Initiative has gained much traction over the past months and has begun with the launch of our first national survey. More to come!

Our regional committee also had its AGM, where Gabriel Bourdon was re-elected as Co-Chair and Laurent Paradis-Charrette was re-elected as Communications Officer. A Secretary position still remains vacant, so please make sure to canvass young workers in all our workplaces to get them to our next meeting!
